Larry-CIA/Train Local Police story: Post conned as greenest cub should shame being, actually saying that regular local police were given bomb-disposal, record-keeping, etc. training. Regular, uniformed bulls? At CIA? What the hell for! Take it from me, it had to be the best of younger detectives and I'm satisfied in one case this was it. On this case I can't now speak. I'm sure your fair town had to be one included. In regular police work, theoretically the CIA has no expertise and the FBI, which also has the FBI Academy, does. Local departments in larger cities were not just established, either. The whole thing gets fishier the more they talk about it. The CIA also heaped ashes on itself, saying that once again true, dedicated public service, selfless at that, brings criticism down upon it. HW 2/7/73
